

Chapter 10: Proactive
Uses of DNA

Section 1: Using DNA to Establish Third Party Guilt

- Exclusion from a probative item

Section 1: Using DNA to Establish Third Party Guilt

- Redundancy

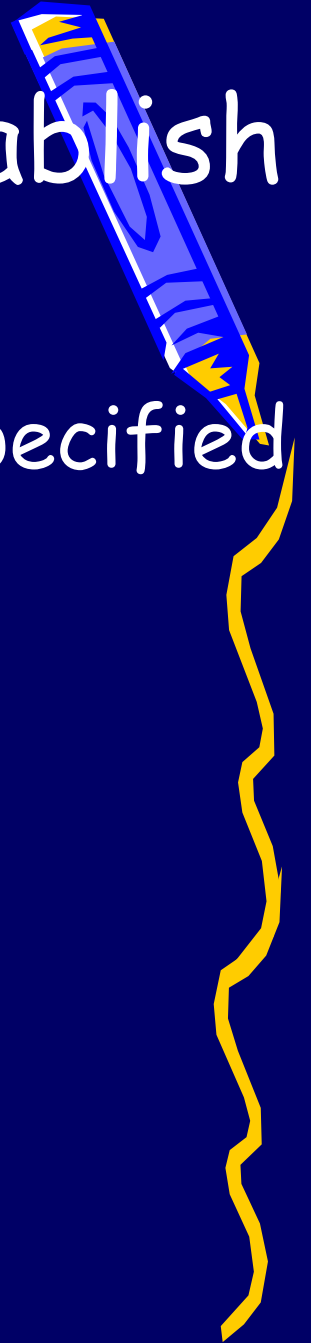

Section 1: Using DNA to Establish Third Party Guilt

- Case Example: Larry Peterson

Section 1: Using DNA to Establish Third Party Guilt

- Matching crime scene evidence to a specified third party

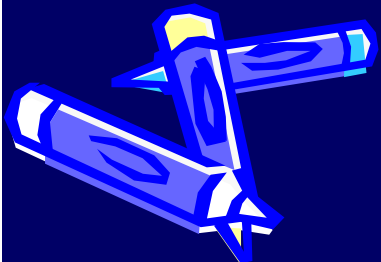

Section 1: Using DNA to Establish Third Party Guilt

- Case example: Clarence elkins

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Case example: Stephan Cowand

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Pre-trial examination, testing, and DNA analysis

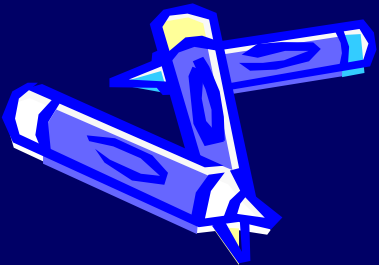

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- The no-semen fallacy

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Case example: Michael Mercer

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Case example: Ronnie Taylor

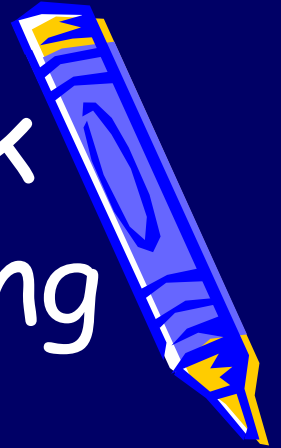

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Case example: Dean Cage

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Pretrial exclusion

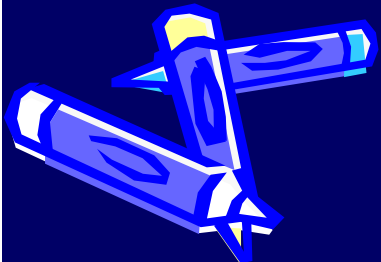

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Case example: Jeffrey Deskovic

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Case example: Douglas Warney

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Inconclusive or Inconclusive or no results

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Limitations of non-DNA forensic testing

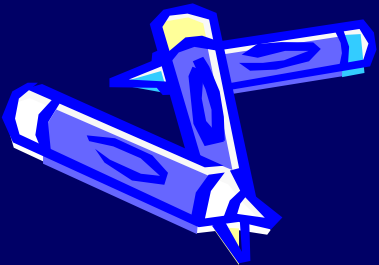

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Case example: Ron Williamson and Dennis Fritz

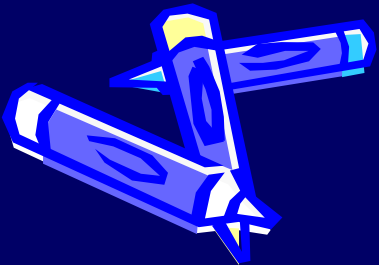

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Prior DNA testing

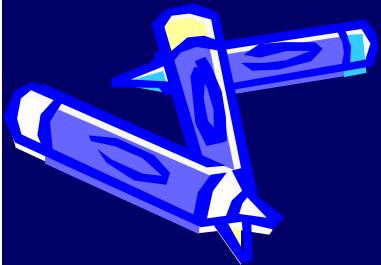

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Multiple Perpetrators

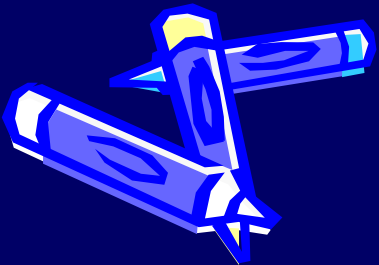

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Prior consensual sex and the potential need for an elimination sample

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Evidence searches

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Hospital and medical examiners' offices

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Case example: Bernard Webster

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

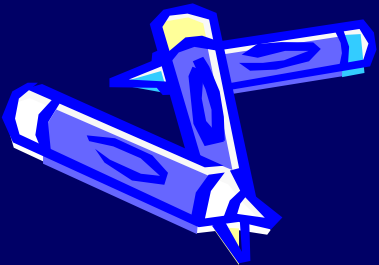

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Investigating law enforcement agencies

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Crime laboratories

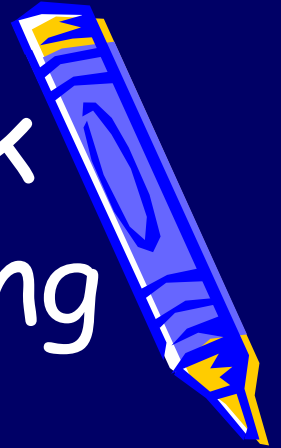

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Trial exhibits

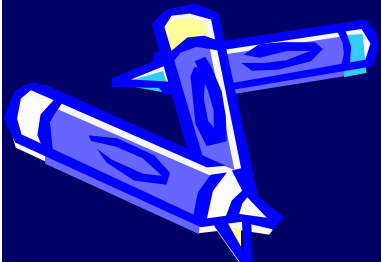

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Prosecuting Attorneys' offices

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Case example: Alan Newton

Section 2: When to Seek Postconviction DNA testing

- Case example: Marvin Anderson

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Seeking State Consent

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- State Statutes on Post Conviction DNA Access

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Identity at issue

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Reasonable likelihood of a different outcome

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Overwhelming evidence of guilt

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Eyewitness identification

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Case Example: Michael Williams

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Case Example: Kirk Bloodsworth

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Case Example: Kevin Green

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Confessions and guilty pleas

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Case Example: Chris Ochoa

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Possession of crime scene evidence

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Case Example: Gene Bibbins

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Case Example: Robert Clark

Section 3: When are you entitled to Post conviction DNA testing?

- Constitutional Right to DNA testing

